Burning Up With a Terrible Itching Eczema.

SPEEDILY CURED BY CUTICURA

"Cuticurs cured me of a terrible eczema from which I had suffered agony and pain for eight years, being unable to obtain any help from the best doctors. My scalp was covered with scabs and my face was like a piece of raw beef, my eyebrows and lashes were falling out, and I felt as if burning up from the terrible itching and pain. Cuticura gave me relief the very first day, and made a complete cure in a short time. My head and face are now clear and well. (signed) Miss Mary M. Fay, 75 West Main St., Westboro, Mass."

ON THE SCAFFOLD

In a Fair Midnight Visitor is Suggested Motive for the Crime.

Ministers Say He is Either Innocent or a Hypocrite and Fiend.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
EAST RADFORD, VA., March 17.—Radord's horrible Christmas tragedy had its culmination to-day in the execution of James Linkous, alias James Luckado, who was convicted January 14th of the murder of his wife and child and sentenced to die on the gallows.

The hanging occurred at the jail at 7:38 A. M. in the presence of about fffty people in addition to the doctors and Linkhous protested his innocence to the end and showed wonderful nerve, though he was physically weak from an illness of several weeks. His pastor, Rev. Mr. Fox, of the Lutheran Church, Rev. S. L. Jackson, of the Christian Church, and other friends passed the night in his cell praying and singing hymns in which Linkous carnetily joined.

Linkous's Statement.

Linkous's Statement.

During the night he gave out the following statement to his spiritual advisers: "I honestly did not kill either my wife or child. I speak this in the fear of God. I know nothing of how the fire commenced nor the cause of it."

He begged to be confronted by Mrs. Texas Sheler Butterworth, the woman who lived in the same house, and was one of the chief witnesses against him in the trial. Accordingly she was brought from New River, about midnight, and catechised by Linkous as to various incidents of the tragedy. She sat on the bed in the iron cage for about an hour and answered the prisoner's questions, but nothing new developed except that akous claimed he gave her whiskey and other presents the evening before the fire. It is thought by many that the motive of the crime lay in the prisoner's attachment to his fair midnight visitor.

A nice breakfast was sent him by G. T. Beamer, but it was untasted except for a cup of coffee.

After a half hour spent in religious devotions the prisoner was escorted to the scaffold by Officers Roop and Dues, Sergeant McNeal and Sheriff Carper, of Pulaski, and the two ministers.

To the Scaffold.

To the Scaffold.

To the Scaffold.

He had told his spiritual advisers the flesh was weak but the spirit strong enough to carry his hody to the scaffold. He had been sigk and was still weak, but showed no sign of fear or nervousness. In his speech on the gallows, he fervettly proclaimed his innocence, lifting his hands to heaven and calling God to witness that he was telling the truth. He said he was willing and ready to go, and asked his auditors to meet him in Heaven. He blessed the officers for their kindness to him and said good-bye to the ministers.

The drop fell at 7:28 A. M. and in fourteen and a half minutes Linkous was dead. The large crowd in front of the jail seemed to feel the solemnity of the hour and every detail of the hanging was nicely executed.

Both Mr. Fox and Mr. Jackson say that Linkous is either perfectly innocent or a consummate hypocrite and flend.

Public opinion is divided, many people being absolutely unshaken in their certainty of his guilt, while others believe the dying statement of the prisoner.

There are several theories as to why Linkous did not confess. His body was sent to the University College of Medicine at Richmond at noon to-day.

Sheriff A. C. Sizer had arranged to have the hanging so early in the morning, there was no crowd around the enclosure, as is usual on such occasions.

The 19th of last March Bowles shot Chesapeake and Ohio Brakeman John Ruff at Clifton Forge. Ruff died at the Chesapeake and Ohio Hospital about twenty-four hours after he was shot. Bowles escaped and succeeded in evading the officers for several days. When he was finally captured, he was brought to Covington, and tried at the April term of the Alleghany County Court, found guilty of murder in the first degree and senced to be hanged June 24, 1904.

Messrs, Hayden and Allen, Bowles's lawyers, took an appeal, and the Supreme yers, took an appeal, and the Supreme Court granted a new trial. The verdict in the second trial was the same as the first, and he was again sentenced to be

The two steamers that ply between Ayletts and West Point, Va., are doing all that is possible to get away the great bulk of freight, such as peas, corn and country produce that accumulated during the freeze in the river.

The sale of black peas at Ayletts are running up into the thousands of bushols and are bringing one and a_hair dollars at the wharf.

The pea crop is one of the best paying that the farmers can cultivate on light land, as the vines can be turned under for a wheat crop after the peas are picked. At present prices the sales average about $22 per aere. This crop is cultivated very cheaply.

POUGHERDEPSHA, N. Y. March 17.—Fearing a water familie, notices have been posted at Vassar warning the students to be economical in the use of water. For the 100,000 gallons wells. The shortage is due, it is believed, to the continued cold weather, which so hardened the ground as almost to cut our the supply.

At the college are 283 students, and more
